INSTALL NEW LIGHT AT KLIEN'S; DISPUTE OVER PAYMENT PERSISTS

A new 100-watt light bulb was installed in the employees' cafeteria at S. Klien's last Wednesday after a prolonged blackout. A dispute over the financial responsibility for replacing the light had raged for three months, and many feared that a stalemate had been reached. It was unexpectedly broken by Mrs. Selma Schmitt, Head Reader in the Book Department.

"I was ruining my eyes," Mrs. Schmitt stated. "The nature of my work makes it imperative for me to read constantly during my lunch period, to keep abreast of the world of literature. Although I sit at a table near the frosted-glass door, the light filtering in from the hallway was dim. Last week my optometrist suggested that I replace the bulb myself. So I did. It was cheaper than buying bi-focals."

Mrs. Schmitt Blamed

Mrs. Schmitt's action brought a storm of protest.

"I never had so many compliments on our food as during the blackout," said Wanda Napple, cafeteria dietician. "Now that they can see it, they're all complaining again."

"I do not wish to question Mrs. Schmitt's motives, but she has definitely usurped a prerogative of management," commented a Klien's representative. "By her impulsive action she has undone years of patient negotiation to improve labor-management relations in the department-store field. Of course we intend to reimburse her."

"We shall pay for the light," stated a spokesman for Last National Realty, the developer of the shopping center. "It's not the money, it's the principle of the thing. We intend to make our tenants happy whether they like it or not."

"Mrs. Schmitt holds no elected office, nor does she represent anyone but herself," added a Greenbelt city councilman who preferred to remain anonymous. "If by her action she means to announce her candidacy, well and good. Nevertheless, her zeal was premature. The City Council, charged with the responsibility for the welfare of citizens within our borders, has already appropriated a sum sufficient to pay for the light. We intend to pay, and we shall; otherwise the budget won't balance."

Mrs. Schmitt Praised

Praise came, however, from the Prince Georges County Society for the Prevention of Blindness. "Widespread individual support is the foundation of our organization's success," said a spokesman. "We intend to pay for the light from our UGF appropriation, and hope the incident receives widespread publicity."

The AMA newsletter printed an editorial supporting Mrs. Schmitt's optometrist, but cautioning members against following his example because of the possible danger of malpractice suits.

The optometrist was condemned by the Horn Rimmed Frame Co., Inc., of Baltimore.

What Price Bulb?

The dispute over payment for the light was complicated by the fact that Mrs. Schmitt refused to say how much it had cost. "I honestly don't know," she told a News Review reporter recently. "It was in a package of light bulbs I bought from a Girl Scout. There were eight bulbs in the package, including some 25-watt and 60-watt as well as this 100-watt bulb. The whole thing came to $1.79, I believe. I have racked my brain trying to figure out how much the 100-watt bulb actually cost, but I'm still not sure."

Here the matter rests. It has been placed on the agenda of the City Council meeting next Monday night at the request of a group of citizens who are circulating a petition.

'Keep Greenbelt Green'

The latest to join the "Keep Greenbelt Green" campaign is the local developers' association. Mr. Hi Rice, president, announced this week, "Our association is 100 percent behind this fight to keep Greenbelt green. After all, we developers deal with green stuff all the time and know how important it is. We are experts on the subject."

City Council Approves Family Plan At Pool

The Greenbelt City Council unanimously approved this week a mud-pack beauty treatment family plan. The program has been worked out with a local beauty salon, using the high-quality clay mud now being dug from the swimming pool site.

The cost of the family plan will be $10, which will include baby-sitting services at the pool. Qualified instructors will supervise while mud-squishing youngsters fashion their works of art. Children may take home all the mud pies they can make. Exceptional pieces will be displayed at Tin Vines.

Sponsor of the measure was Councilman Smythson "Champ" Hofstein who argued that this plan, if a success, would produce much-needed revenues for the city.

"In fact," he said, "the city might well look around for other profitable uses of the mud. Perhaps we can interest some candidates for elective office."

He added, "We will also be glad to sling—oops, I mean, send some samples of the mud to Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission and other government agencies who might be interested in launching their own mud-pack beauty treatment programs."

The councilman denied that this new program will conflict with Greenbelt's Annual Clean-Up Campaign.

First Returns From GHI Questionnaire

Preliminary results from the questionnaire sent to members of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) under the auspices of the Long-Range Planning Committee were released last week. Fifty-one percent of the persons replying wanted to know who GHI was, 38 percent said they had heard favorable comments about GHI but didn't want to join now, and 11 percent said that the size of their kitchens wouldn't permit any long ranges.

Club To Enter Fight

The Science Club of Greenbelt has made its contribution to help preserve Greenbelt. The gift arrived yesterday—10,000 gallons of formaldehyde.

NASA Sends Up Moon Rocket

In a surprise move early this morning, the Space Agency sent up a Jiminy moon rocket from Greenbelt. A huge portable gantry of revolutionary design was erected secretly during the night on Braden Field and the giant missile was quietly rolled up to it. The few persons passing through the Center at that hour of the night apparently mistook it for another little red school house and passed on unnoticed.

The exciting details of this newest and greatest launch are still pouring in. It has been announced that the rocket is manned by two simians, a monkey and his uncle. Rescue operations will commence in five days, when the missile is scheduled to complete its lunar

Recreation Review

Speed Knitting Team Victorious. No wool-gathering for these gals! Greenbelt's powerful speed-knitting team topped all county competition at the marathon Cablestitch Open at Upper Marlboro last Sunday. "We really gave them the needles," stated Team Captain Polly Puritwo, proudly displaying her trophy, an ankle-length mohair sweater.

Grooming for Teens. The April sessions of our ever-popular Beauty Course for teens will include: "Changing your Eyes from Brown to Blue;" "Chewing Gum the 'In' Way—with a Snap;" "How to Keep your Stocking Seams Straight while Doing the Twist;" and "Setting your Eyelashes on Rollers." Don't miss these classes, teens! Good grooming gives you poise and confidence.

News Review Expands Basement Quarters

News Review staff members voted to expand their basement offices into the city sewer system Monday night. Annexation by the paper of Greenbelt's lower depths is an example of the "No Rise" concept of low density (low and dense) zoning currently popular with city planners. An ecstatic staff member stated: "The possibilities of underground communication are endless. Now we can dig up all the dirt in town." Plans are afoot to enlarge the "Sour Neighbors" column.

Recruitment problems, which have plagued the News Review recently, will probably be eased by the new policies. Although an occasional visitor to the offices, wishing to place a classified ad, is never seen again, staff members vehemently denied reports that such persons were shanghaied into typing Little League baseball scores.

round trip. The United States carrier Cliffhanger will proceed to Greenbelt Lake to accomplish the pick-up of the capsule upon its return.

The News Review was privileged to scoop the local press by obtaining a personal interview with Dr. Herrman von Glockenspiel, technical advisor for this moon shot. Dr. Glockenspiel was asked: "What is the name of this project?"

"We call it Operation Jet Propelled Coach."

"Dr. Glockenspiel, can you tell us how this name was selected?"

"Ja, we call it that because it is a four rocket stage."

During the early morning hours, count-down had to be suspended

County Declares Moratorium On Rezoning in Prince Georges

No applications for rezoning in Prince Georges County will be accepted by the County Commissioners until one year from today. In a surprise move, the County Commissioners moved to set the April 1 deadline, swept along by an irresistible wave of grassroots feeling that there has been far too much talk about rezoning lately.

Representatives of dozens of civic groups have been picketing the County Services Building, the courthouse, and the homes of com-

Local Men Star In Circus Ring

The Stiff-Yewing-Jaguar 3-ring circus sponsored by the NMOOCS is in town featuring some local talent. In the center ring the county commissioners will do a tight-rope act between two safety zones. At one end will be the Muscle developers headed by Charley the Wrestler - at the other end will be the light-footed ballet dancers of Greenbelt headed by Carla Swan and G. K. Hodenfoot.

The other rings will have city manager G. Howe Easy doing his famous budget balancing act, Green-trumpet and OHara in an exciting precision act involving careful measurements and Brave Stampion riding an elephant with Bud Bean on a donkey.

Ringmaster State Senator Vine-land will crack his whip over the two teams of horses that he recently acquired.

The grand finale will feature a gala fireworks display paid for by the mayor and councilmen because they know what the public wants. Last National Realty will provide the electricians and red, yellow, and green spotlights.

FORMER EDITOR VISITS

The usual routine was upset this week at the News Review office with the surprise return from Africa of former editor Virginia Beach-head. Current editor, Dorothy Lollipop, sniffing a strange exotic perfume, looked up from the foot-high pile of copy waiting to be edited after being written by columnists Al and Elaine Skullneck, Sid Kastoff, Dave Spurn, Rita Fuschia, and G. K. Hassenpfeffer.

Virginia walked in and greeted everyone in Swahili, which was hard to understand due to the noisy typewriters and the female-dominated staff.

Copy readers Mary Sniff, Kathy Cough, Mary Lou Wheeze, and Sally Ball, new to the staff, could not understand the air of excitement that prevailed as the ladies renewed old friendships.

Business Manager Adele Fund, stopped counting overdue bills long enough to join in the festivities and advertising directors Bess Hairpin and Dickie Peachpit left their duties to greet the returning Green-belter.

Virginia and her husband, gorgeous George, along with their three children, are currently looking for a house in Greenbelt. Preferred is a split-level rambler with a sunken basement and no drain tile. "This way, we won't have to take the children to the pool. After each rainfall, we can just dive into the basement," explained Virginia.

briefly when guards apprehended what appeared to be a Russian spy.

A voice was heard saying "Nyet". A swift, thorough search revealed a young person lurking near the swimming pool. Asked to present his credentials, he proved to be a fourth grader with a history of sleep-walking. He stoutly denied being an iron curtain spy. Asked why he had said "Nyet", he maintained that he didn't even know what the word meant, but that when he saw the giant rocket blast off, he gave his customary term of approbation: "Nyet!"

Only one casualty was reported. At the same moment as the rocket rose majestically into the sky, the statue in the Center sank slowly into the ground.

missioners for several weeks now, carrying signs with the slogan "No More Rezoning, We're Tired," "Down With Public Hearings" and "We Want to Go Home, Our Children Need Us."

The county commissioners were generally receptive to public sentiment. Speaking from an overpass of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway to an enormous crowd conducting a lie-in on the Capital Beltway below, Commissioner Frank Brookefin was cheered loudly when he said, "Folks, go home to your own beds. You've earned a rest." The other commissioners were standing beside him, and a volley of hurrahs greeted Commissioner Jessie Lastman when she stated, "I agreed with you wholeheartedly that zoning is important, and I heartily regret that it has to be so boring." Commissioner Bayne Spellglad was also well-received by the crowd when he summed up the general feeling in the words, "Enough is enough."

Many Greenbelters were present at the lie-in, and before dispersing, they elected an ad hoc committee, to be chaired by out-of-towner William J. Ablution, charged with the task of renewing the moratorium when the year ran out.

Everyone then went home to work in his garden.

City Notes

Superintendent of Public Works Buddy Haddock announces that during the month of March, 87 man-hours were spent by city crews clearing eagles' nests out of the woods next to Greenbelt Lake; 43 hours were spent repainting the statue in the Center Mall; 112 hours were spent posting notices in garbage closets requesting residents to bag their trash; 408 hours were spent fishing for small-mouth bass to be used for fertilizer on the planting boxes outside the municipal building; and 57 hours were spent rowing stranded teenagers from the Youth Center to higher ground during the flood, which is said to have resulted from a wad of chewing gum that stopped up the water cooler.

Police Chief William Late is actively recruiting replacements for three policemen who resigned last week in protest when school safety patrols refused to let them cross the street ahead of the line. The patrols, who insisted that the policemen wait their turn when they attempted to answer an emergency call just as Center School children were going home for lunch, also forced the officers to cross within the yellow lines. Remaining members of the Police Department have gone on a sympathy strike, charging the Board of Education with "brutality."

Plans have been announced by developers for a 39-story apartment building on the peninsula jutting into the east end of Greenbelt Lake. To be called Box Springs, the building is described in a publicity release as "the high-rise development with bounce." Bulldozers are already clearing the area of ducks.

The city is looking into the possibility of holding its council meetings at the local sidewalk cafe. This change would bring about increased attendance (refreshments will be served), and shorten the length of the council meeting since the newly-passed anti-loitering act would clear the sidewalks at 11 p.m.

Due to mechanical difficulties, the litter-gitter is now mounted on a stationary platform behind the municipal building. Citizens who are cleaning up their yards for the spring and have leaves to dispose of are requested to bring all debris to this location.

"Save Greenbelt" Campaign Gets Off To Rousing Start

by G. K. Hodenfield

More than 75 aroused Greenbelt citizens, determined to have more of a say in how their city shall be developed, met in the municipal building Monday night to kick off a "Save Greenbelt" campaign which, it is hoped, eventually will have the active support of the entire city.

The tone of the two-hour meeting was set by GHI President Charles Schwan, temporary chairman of the "Meeting to Preserve Greenbelt," when he said:

"We are seeking to organize a citizens' movement, a community effort. This is not just a City Council effort, or just a GHI effort, but a community-wide effort to develop this city according to our own plan, rather than Area Plan 13 North or—even worse—the plans of some of the zoning petitions."

Albert K. Herling, 13-M Ridge, put it this way:

"We are interested in preserving a green Greenbelt. We are not concerned with the prevention of growth, but with a healthy growth which will keep us from living in a concrete jungle."

"If the elected officials of the county didn't get the point (at the giant protest rally in Center School last July), then we must now develop muscle—and show it. If we lose because we fail to act, then we have no one to blame but ourselves."

The main order of business at this preliminary meeting was the election of a 17-member steering committee to originate community-wide programs and guide their development. The steering committee was authorized to elect its own officers. Additions to the committee may be made later, subject to the approval of the entire organization.

In a short session after the general assembly broke up, the steering committee agreed to hold its first formal meeting at 7:30 p.m., Friday, April 2, in the Municipal Building. Harvey Geller was elected permanent treasurer — and given charge of more than $55 taken up in donations during the meeting.

The steering committee also sent a telegram to State Senator Fred Wineland, urging his continued support of House Bill 927, which would give citizens and municipali-

On Wednesday, March 10, the Prince Georges County Planning Board (MNCPPC) considered 15 zoning applications for property within and adjacent to the City of Greenbelt and made recommendations to the county commissioners. The county commissioners have yet to set a public hearing date for these petitions.

The applications of most interest to Greenbelters are: (1) request for R-18 (high-density apartments) for ½ acre along Crescent Rd. behind Parkway apartments. The County Planning Board recommended denial and approval of R-30 (garden-type apartments).

(2) request for commercial office building on small lot near American Legion. Planning Board recommended denial and approval of R-30.

(3) request for R-18 for 19 acres of Lakeside North Apartments, presently zoned R-30. Planning Board recommended denial.

GHI BOARD ORDERS TOPOGRAPHIC STUDY OF THREE LAND PARCELS

by Al Skolnik

Plans for using Greenbelt Homes, Inc. vacant land took a step forward last Thursday when the GHI board authorized a topographic (contour) survey of three parcels of undeveloped land, totaling about 10 acres. The parcels are 4 lots in the Woodland Way-Northway Rd. area, the area opposite North End School, and the land between 4 and 6 Ridge Rd.

The Long-Range Planning Committee recommended the survey as necessary for architectural studies, zoning reports, and other needs relating to residential development. The topo survey will cost about $3,000. The Committee also recommended a topo survey costing another $2,000 for one additional parcel behind 1 and 3 Research rd., but the board voted to delay this action since plans for development of that property had not jelled sufficiently.

The current thinking of the board calls for construction of four- and five-bedroom free-standing homes on the lots and four- and five-bedroom townhouses on the land across from North End School. However, the only definite decision of the board so far is to proceed with plans for a "pilot project" on the 4 lots in the Northway area, the success of which will determine whether to proceed with the development of the land opposite North End School. Commitments from individual purchasers will be sought before construction begins.

As a first step, GHI is exploring with FNMA (the government agency holding GHI's mortgage) the outright release of the lots on Northway. FNMA has suggested that the land be kept under the mortgage and GHI use its contingency reserves to finance the homes. GHI wishes, however, to have maximum flexibility in arranging for financing and does not want to tie up its reserves for such a long period.

GHI would retain ownership of the land and sell the homes on a perpetual lease basis, with purchasers becoming members of GHI, under arrangements similar to those now existing for present GHI homeowners. The price of the homes would include the current market price of the land and the costs of construction, plus financing charges. The general membership would thus be relieved of the current carrying charges for the vacant land.

In order to avoid speculative purchases, the GHI management visualizes controlled resale prices. It is felt that such a practice is justifiable since the aim of the project is to provide reasonably-priced housing to members with large families.

Committee Appointed

One thorny problem would be to determine which members would get first crack at purchasing the homes. GHI president Charles Schwan has appointed a committee consisting of directors Gerald Gough, Velma Chapman, and Steve Polaschik to set up eligibility criteria.

Concern was expressed by David Lange, chairman of the Audit Committee, that plans were proceeding without first getting membership approval. The board assured Lange that the membership would have a chance to discuss these plans at the annual meeting in May.

Other members from the audience expressed reservations about expending money for topo surveys for certain land that might better be considered as parkland. It was pointed out also that questionnaires have recently gone to the membership asking their views on the vacant land, and that decisions could await these results. Management, incidentally, reported that replies have been received from 42 percent of the membership, 46 percent brick, and 39 percent frame.

Zoning

The board went on record in opposition to the rezoning petition for a regional shopping center in the Golden Triangle. A public hearing on this matter will be held on Friday, April 23, before the county commissioners in Hyattsville.

The board suggested to city council that the county commissioners be petitioned to hold public hearings in Greenbelt proper on zoning matters relating to Greenbelt property.

The board was advised that the city of Greenbelt cannot be removed from the jurisdiction of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission until it has taken an official census establishing that the city has the necessary 10,000 population to qualify for a zoning jurisdiction of its own.

Tid-bits

GHI will not supply privet hedges and shade trees this year, since it cannot secure any savings by purchasing in quantity. . . . The board heard a presentation for using the GHI mechanism to sell disability insurance to the members, but declined to take any action on grounds that membership in the past has not expressed much interest. . . . The board accepted a recommendation of the Personnel Committee to upgrade one job in the maintenance section.

Proposed County Budget To Raise Taxes Again

Prince Georges County fiscal officials presented a $97.3 million budget to the county commissioners last week for fiscal year 1965-66, representing a proposed increase of $16.3 million. If approved in its entirety, the real estate tax rate would be increased 40 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

The present real estate tax is $2.68 per $100 assessed value, with property assessed at 55 to 60 percent of market value. A 40-cent rise would cost the owner of a home with a market value of $20,000 about $48, bringing his total tax bill to $370. Greenbelt Homes, Inc. estimates that the raise would cost the corporation $28,000.

The budget is the highest ever presented in the county, and directly reflects the county's emergence as the area's most populous section, with all the attendant growing pains.

Largest single item in the proposed spending program is the school department's $59.4 million operating budget, an increase of $11 million over the current appropriation.

The rise in the school budget comes mainly from an increase in teacher salaries and the staffing of 14 new schools that will open in September. There was also an increase of nearly $1 million in bond redemption charges, interest and debt service on school construction bonds.

Other large increases included a jump of $814,000 for the county police department, $472,000 in the public works budget, and a raise of $440,000 in general government cost. Another increase would be $165,000 for the Prince Georges Memorial Library for increased staff and materials.

It is unlikely that the Commissioners will approve the budget as it now stands. The lion's share of the cuts will come from the school department's request, a spokesman for the Commissioners said.

Public hearings on the budget are scheduled for 10 a.m., Friday, April 2, in the County Service Building at Hyattsville and 1 p.m., April 6 at the County Courthouse in Upper Marlboro.

Del. Hart to Speak

The Honorable Royal Hart will speak on the subject of "Education and Politics" at the meeting of the North End PTA on Tuesday, April 6, at 8 p.m. Delegate Hart has represented Prince Georges County in the Maryland House of Delegates since 1962, is past vice-chairman of the Delegation, and is presently a member of the House Judiciary Committee. The public is invited to attend.

Elected to the Steering Committee were:

Mayor Edgar Smith, 118 Greenhill

Charles F. Schwan, Jr., 7-A Crescent

Francis White, former mayor, 42 Lakeside

Charles Fuchs, president, Lakeside Citizens Association, 60 Lakeside

On a motion by Councilman David Champion, it was unanimously agreed that the steering committee—to preserve its character as a citizens group—should include just one member of City Council and one officer of GHI. Schwan and Mayor Edgar Smith were nominated and elected to fill these two posts.

One project facing the steering committee is the selection of a name for the organization. Several of those proposed Monday night were "Greenbelt Plan-Action Com-

April Fool

This week we are presenting the (third) April Fool issue in the history of the Greenbelt News Review. Readers who are just a mite tired of rezoning, public hearings, and petitions may welcome the chance to relax and chuckle over the lighter side of our burning issues. We hope Greenbelters will enjoy reading the April Fool issue as much as the staff enjoyed writing it.

Garden Club Making Plans

To the Editor:

How some of us in Greenbelt greet the spring may be news to others who have arrived in the last year or two. Soon the annual Garden Club meeting will be announced by Leonard Baron, its chairman. The club is responsive to member needs, whether dooryard problems of flowers, lawn, hedges, or shrubs, or vegetable growing. Membership is open to all residents, and the annual membership card has acceptance for discounts on cash purchases from some garden suppliers.

Traditionally the vegetable growers in the club work small allotments, mostly at the end of Hamilton Place, (on Mr. Bresler's land), assigned by G.H.I. committeeman George Adams.

Green-thumbed or green-eyed persons may also turn to the Landscape Committee, long promoted by former resident Hans Jorgensen to improve the common property of G.H.I. and its individual member-owners. The Landscape Committee is ready to consult with any Greenbelters, and the city authorities, to make Greenbelt greener.

Advice on specific dooryard growing problems may be obtained from the County Extension Service, P.O. Box 518, Upper Marlboro, Md. The Service also issues a regular free bulletin, supervised by Extension Agent Clayton Werner, who as a long-time resident of Greenbelt gained close understanding of our local situation.

On behalf of my family, I want to thank our neighboring Rescue Squad for the heroic job they did in answering an emergency accident call in which my son George was severely injured on Route 1, College Park, on March 22.

From reports, George was trapped in the wreck among dangling live wires for more than an hour before being freed.

It was only through the brave work and experience of the Rescue Squad that he was released without further injury after the crash as it was necessary to cut part of the car away to get him out.

I hope it is never again necessary to use a Rescue Squad but we want to let our neighbors know that they are on duty 24 hours a day and now need your support to continue the good work they are doing. Let's get behind our own Greenbelt Rescue Squad in their present fund drive with the hope we will never need them but will know they will be ready in an emergency.

Robert C. Mayhew

High Point High Points

Jeffrey Rosen, a junior at High Point, placed second in the field of engineering in the Prince Georges Regional Science Fair held at Maryland University last weekend. Jeff's project, "Study of Aerodynamic Phenomenon," also brought him two other special awards from the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics and the Army Aviation Association of America.

Junior David Jefferson's contribution to the regional fair won him the first place and best presentation awards in mathematics, as well as the second grand prize in the entire senior division. As a result, Dave, a former Greenbelter, is off to St. Louis, Missouri on May 5 to enter his project, "Isosceles Trigonometry," in the National Science Fair-International.

Bringing their journalistic talents to the classroom, eight Greenbelt juniors have been appointed to the '65-'66 staffs of the High Point publications. Formerly a member of Greenbelt Junior High's newspaper staff, Sue Ellerin will be the Editor-in-chief of the 1966 EYRY, the school yearbook. The EYRY Assistant Business Manager will be Debbie Mayer, who worked on the yearbook, literary magazine, and newspaper during her junior high years. Past editor of the Greenbelt literary magazine, Barbara Bowman will assume the position of Editor-in-chief of THE BEACON, the school newspaper. Serving as News Editor on this publication will be Barbara Skolnik, previously editor of her junior high paper. Hailing from Ohio where she worked on a junior high newspaper, Missy Brady, now assistant Business Manager of THE BEACON, will become next year's Business Manager. Nancy McMahon, who once helped with junior high publications, will be Assistant Feature Editor of High Point's paper. Rebecca Fisher, co-editor of the junior high paper, plans to work on the feature staff of THE BEACON. Bringing with him the experience of working on art staffs of the junior high paper, literary magazine, and yearbook, Paul Stover will continue his present position as photographer for the EYRY and THE BEACON next year.

All Greenbelters should be proud of the fine record their young people are creating for themselves as active members of the High Point student body.

Greenbelt Grab-bag . . . by Punchin' Judy

The following people were interviewed near the Center. The question: What do you think of the moon shot that was just fired from Greenbelt?

Mr. Hy Rise, area builder: I'm in the business of putting up things, myself, but I haven't aimed quite that high yet. Wonder how these Space Agency people got their zoning?

Mrs. Rita Lott, librarian: Exciting, isn't it! And while we're on the subject of space, did you know that the library has a space problem, too? Wonder if they'd let us use the capsule as a branch library when they're through with it.

Mr. I. Zack Walton, nature lover: I was out feeding the ducks this morning, and they're all upset on account of these carryings-on. Some of them took off and haven't come back yet. I think maybe they're in orbit. Greenbelt just isn't what it used to be.

Mr. George Dewitt, Greenbelt resident: All this traffic going in and out of Greenbelt was bad enough, but now it's going up and down, too. Next thing you know, we'll have to demand a traffic light on the corner of Greenbelt and Mars.

The Greenbelt Travel Club, organized last year to offer inexpensive trips to local residents, is planning a tour of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania on Sunday, April 14. Reservations must be made in advance at the Twin Pines Savings and Loan office. The fee will not be returned, since a bus will be chartered, but you may designate someone to take your place if you find that you cannot go.

School Board Seeks Parent Volunteers

The Board of Education of Prince Georges County is inviting applications now from parent volunteers to be trained as leaders in an expanding program of discussion groups for parents. These informal groups are designed to help parents work together for greater understanding of that "whats" and "hys" of normal children's behavior and family relationships.

The program of leadership training will include lectures and discussions on child growth and development, family relationships, and working with small groups; frequent observations of children in a wide variety of settings; and attendance as a participant-observer at discussion groups already underway.

The training program will start in September 1965 and extend throughout the school year. Participants will meet two mornings a week during the first half of the school year and at least one morning a week during the second half. Those who complete the training program successfully will be asked to lead a discussion group somewhere in the County for the next two years under the supervision of a staff member of the Board of Education.

The training group will be limited to twelve to fifteen parents. Applicants will be selected on the basis of individual and group interviews. Persons interested in applying for the training program are urged to write or telephone Dr. Margaret M. Conant, Coordinator of Child-Study Programs, Board of Education, Upper Marlboro, Maryland. Telephone: 627-2811, Extension 217.

Patrols Visit FBI

by Debbi Mund, Age 11

On March 8, the patrols of Greenbelt Center School went to the FBI building in Washington. Our guide showed us pictures of the 10 most wanted criminals and told us of their crimes. He told us the importance of hair or dirt that could be found near the scene of the crime. He told a lot about fingerprints and how they can be changed or destroyed. He pointed out the growth of communism and how it could be stopped.

Going to the shooting gallery, a detective fired some shots at a target. The patrols enjoyed the tour immensely, and we are looking forward to another one.

TEACHING CAREER MONTH

April will see the schools and the teachers of Prince Georges County participating in Teaching Career Month, a program sponsored by the National Education Association to focus public attention on the need for getting and keeping good teachers on all levels. "The Changing Face of Teaching" is 1965's theme for Teaching Career Month, and the observance by our community will highlight the distance the teachers of Prince Georges County have traveled as well as the anticipated changes that will carry the profession even further in its service to the County.

Proposed Increase - Swimming Pool Rates

As was indicated at the time of the Swimming Pool Referendum, the increased costs for debt service on the pool will have to be financed through a nominal increase in the rates. A resolution proposing new rates has been introduced and will be considered by the City Council at its meeting of April 5, 1965. Any comments concerning these proposed rates should be made to the Council before or at that meeting.

The pool is scheduled to be reopened on Memorial Day as usual. However, should the construction of the new main pool, a new diving pool, new deck and sunbathing areas and new filter equipment be delayed so that the pool cannot be opened on time, provision has been made for partial refunds on season passes.

The proposed rates as compared to last year's rates are as follows:

Refunds:

1. If the pool is in operation before June 19, 1965, although all facilities are not completed or in use, there shall be no refunds on season passes.
2. If the pool is not placed in operation until or after June 19, 1965, there shall be a refund to season pass holders in an amount which is in proportion to the total fee paid as the number of days after June 18, 1965 that the pool is not in operation is in proportion to the total number of days between, but not including, June 18, 1965 and September 7, 1965.

Other provisions:

Golden Agers News

Greenbelt's Golden Age club elected officers on March 17: Allen D. Morrison, president; Joseph C. Cherry and Ray Bochart, vice-presidents; Mrs. William J. Dickman, secretary; and Harold Taylor, treasurer.

Six new members have joined the club: Mrs. Turner, Seward, Oring, Beal, McDermott, and Friedman. Despite the snowstorm, 58 members attended the election meeting.

The club's building fund is growing, with proceeds added recently from the sale of books and magazines, as well as crocheted items made by Mrs. McNeil and nylon net puffs made by Mrs. Turner.

Forthcoming events include a musical at the Jewish Community Center on April 4, given in the club's behalf, and a September trip sponsored by the Planning Commission of Prince Georges County.

The club needs volunteers to sell tickets at its forthcoming carnival.

Public Invited To Aid In Poverty Program

The war on poverty in Prince Georges County is taking the form of a pre-school nursery program for culturally deprived children. The purpose is to provide these youngsters, ages 3-5, with opportunities for some of the childhood experiences necessary for a successful school career and an adequate education. At present, the project is in the planning stages. Those who will be working with the children are receiving training in the form of discussion sessions and lectures given by University of Maryland personnel.

The public is invited to attend all meetings and training sessions. Information may be obtained from the co-chairmen, Gerald Gough (474-1529), a high school social studies teacher, and Connie Junghans (WE-5-3017).

Mother Takes A Bath

Last night I decided to take a bath. It was about 10:30 and there was just time for a relaxing, warm, scented, bubbly bath before the 11 o'clock news. I should have known better.

First, I checked the children, and that was a mistake. Removed the cat from the bed of the sleeping 10-year-old, turned off the radio which was playing rock-and-roll in the room of the sleeping 14-year-old and went to see the 18-year-old, who was very much awake and doing homework. Was asked to explain the Elizabethan sonnet form, to check a problem involving two trains careening towards each other at different velocities, and to please iron a shirt for him to wear tomorrow.

At 10:48, walked into the bathroom. Picked up three wet towels, one wet bathmat, and assorted forgotten soiled clothes and threw them into the hamper. Got out a clean bathmat, knelt on it and cleaned out the tub. Turned on the water and added a liberal quantity of foaming bath salts. Cleaned the wash basin, washed out the hose I had been wearing, and cleaned the bathroom mirror. Found and replaced the missing cap from the toothpaste tube and got out a fresh bar of soap. At 10:59, finally got into the tub.

Well, I missed the news but I had a heavenly bath. And then I got out the ironing board.
